defines freedom

"Confused, disgusted faces are common to the F-C crowd. Due to the busing situation, F-C has a conglomeration of students from several of the area high schools. Over-crowded halls and classrooms cause extra problems for both teachers and students. And yet it is our school, for us either to be proud to be a part of it or to care less what happens to it.

For a better school everyone has to work together, be willing to accept responsibility and to cooperate. Together we can achieve the privileges and freedoms we say we want. But first we must work to keep the school spirit that makes people want to be called Cavaliers."

Carol France surges upward for freedom.

Vicki Emter meditates on the changing values of today's youth.

Debra Jones, like many F-C students, releases daily tension on the tennis court.

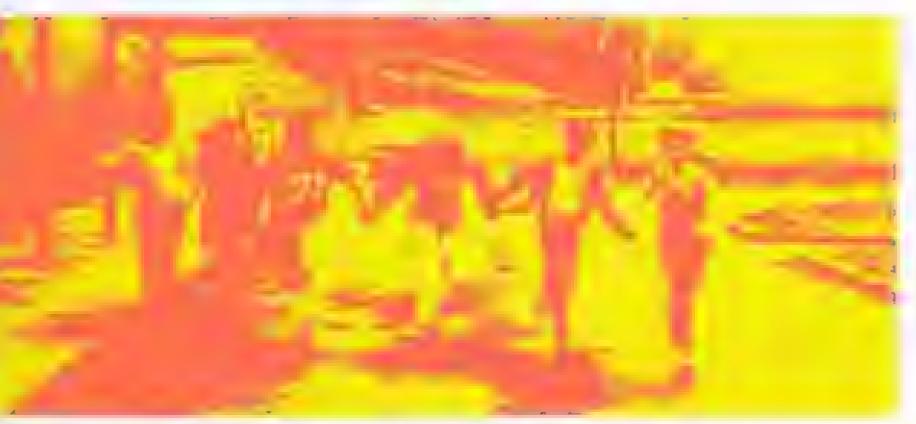

Everyone craves and idealizes freedom, yet who knows what freedom really is? The answer is so simple, one says. Freedom is being able to leave one's tray at the lunch table when leaving the cafeteria, or showing up at school several minutes late and not having to stay in detention hall. But is this really freedom?

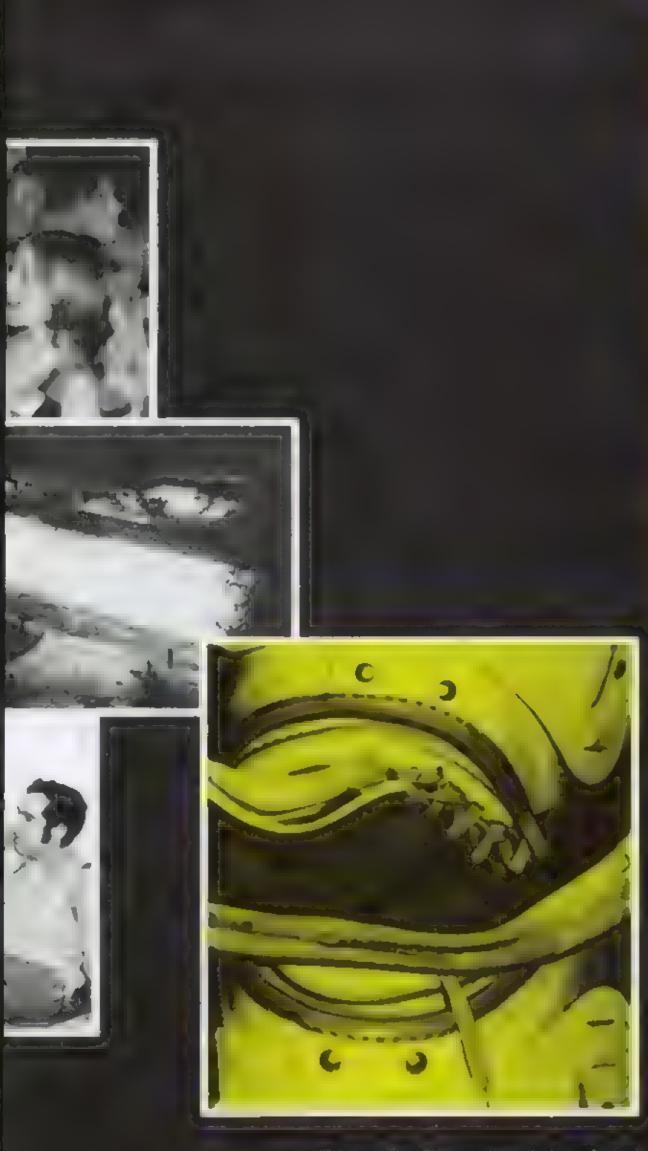

Freedom is abstract, thus it cannot really be defined. There is no way to express what freedom means to you, the individual. The freedoms of F-C students are small and insignificant to everyone but the individual. Each searches for freedom in simple ways, such as pleading for a drink machine. But is this really freedom?

Freedom must be sought, though it can never be found; for it is an absolute, and people, as mortal beings, cannot accomplish any absolute except death. Could this mean that life is the search for a freedom that cannot be found until death?

F-C wrestlers train for a winning season

Philip Kipfinger looks on anxiously as Coach Spritz administers first aid to his injured foot.

Fieldale-Collinsville's wrestling team has compiled one of the best records of any of our interscholastic teams. With regard to the number of grapplers, this year's team comprises fewer players than last year's, but several of the wrestlers have as many as three seasons of experience in the sport and thus add to the winning efforts of the team.

Some of the wrestlers have been in training since September, but most of the players started practice at the end of football season.

The twenty-six members contend not only with other wrestling teams, but also with apathy of the F-C student body. Although enjoying a great margin of success over past years, wrestling continues to draw small crowds of interested students.

Team co-captains Joe Rains and Marshall Turner lead their fellow grapplers through practice and matches.

Coach Richard Spritz and Coach Ken Waller, in charge of the wreatling program, instruct Joe Rains and Marshall Turner in the basics.

Paul Anthony wins state championship wrestling in the 98-pound bracket

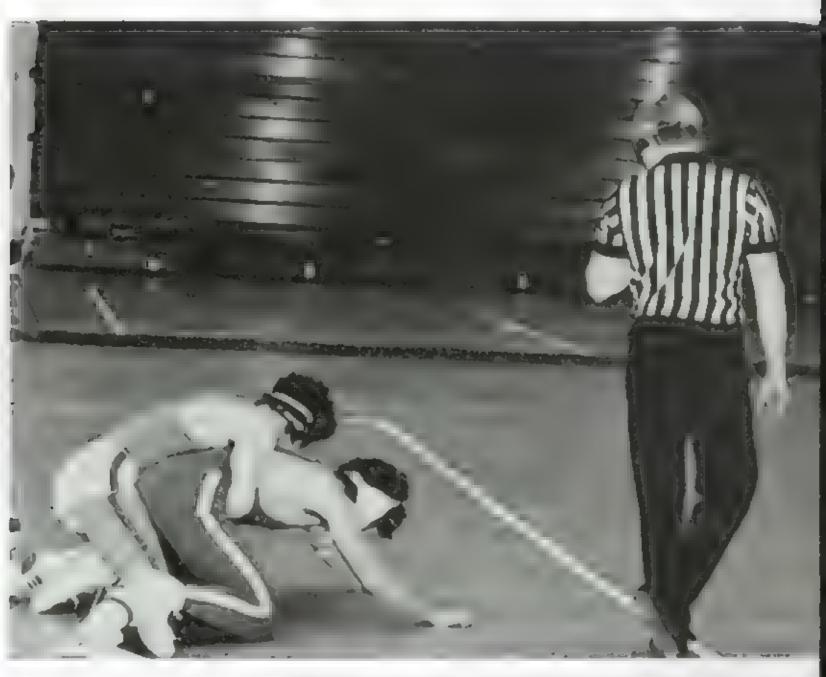

Sophomore Paul Anthony won the State AA wrestling championship in his classification. This accomplishment represents the finished product of a program that has been going on for six years at F-C. Smallboned with small features, Anthony has the strength and stamina that the casual observer does not see. And, being taller than most the 98pounders adds the extra benefit of leverage.

Paul started working out with the wrestlers when he was an eighth-grader. In his freshman year, Anthony was the varsity's top grappler in his weight division. He posted an 8-8 record, coming on strong near the end of the season to finish fourth in the regionals.

During the 1972 mat season Paul Anthony won all of his matches, including those at regionals and the state meet. Next year he plans to hit the mat as a hefty 105-pounder.

Tracksters rely on stamina

The 1971-72 track team had only a slim chance of breaking old school records as they were saddled with a very diminuitive schedule. Individually, however, Fred Smith, Joe Rains, and Tony Thomas set new records in their events.

Keturning lettermen include Joe Baldwin, Joe Rains, Harold Martin, Donnie Robertson, and Donald Chitwood.

In the first meet of the 1972 season, F-C beat Drewry Mason by a score of 76-60. In the triangular meet with Bassett and Dan River, F-C won with a score of 80½ to second-place Bassett with a score of 44 and a close third of Dan River with 43½.

The third meet pitted F-C against Drewry Mason, and F-C repeated its previous win by the identical score of 76-60.

Tunstall handed F-C its first loss with the final score of Tunstall 83 and the Cavaliers 51. In this triangular meet, Dan River captured third place with a score of 36.

In the next triangular meet, F-C placed last to Laurel Park, who scored 66½ and Carver, who scored 63½.

Senior Fred Smith set a high jump record for the school with a jump of 6 feet 3 inches. He also broke the school record in the low hurdles with a time of 21.4 seconds.

Junior Joe Rains had an impressive season as he also set two new school records. He had the winning time of 10.3 seconds for the hundred yard dash and a time of 52.6 seconds for the 440 yard dash.

Sophomore Tony Thomas added to the team's efforts when he broke the existing pole vault record with a vault of 12 feet 6 inches. He previously had set the record of 12 feet.

Of these three stars of the 1972 season, only one record-breaker is on the team for the 1973 season. Joe Rains provides the leadership for the tracksters this year.

The 1972-73 basketball season meant rebuilding for the defending district champions. Coached by Noble Marshall, the inexperienced Cava progressed favorably.

The Cavaliers opened the cage season with a 47-38 victory over Dan River. The next seven games resulted in seven losses, including two games lost to Martinsville and Tunstall by a one-point margin. The team narrowly missed winning by a two-point margin to Chatham.

During the Christmas Holiday Tournament, the Cavaliers lost to the Bassett Bengals but defeated the Carver Trojans.

Junior varsity cagers finish impressive season third in district

The 1972 Junior Varsity basketball team presented an exciting season to the F-C crowd. The J.V. squad finished third in the district competition with a record of nine wins and seven losses. Coached by Danny Copenhaver, the J.V.'s compiled a record never before achieved by any former J.V. squad. Copenhaver attributes the winning season to a combined effort of coach and team.

The cagers' high scorer for the season was Gary Gibson, followed closely in total points by Mike Stewart and Mike Duffy. In a contest against Carver, Mike Stewart dumped in 18 points to contribute to the winning effort of 42-41.

Mike Duffy earned 19 points against Martinsville to lead in the victory over the Bulldogs.

The highlight of the J.Y. cage season came when Gary Gibson scored a season high of 38 points against Bassett.

The junior Cavs, lagging behind at the holiday break with a record of one win and six losses, came back to win three consecutive games over Patrick County, Drewry, Mason, and Dan River. They also suffered a one-point loss to Carver.

After losing to Bassett and Laurel Park by narrow margins, the J.V.'s posted five straight victories, thus ending the season on a successful note.

Another football coach takes over F-C team

Opening their 1972 season, the Cavaliers faced many difficulties. Players were small, young, and inexperienced. Only seven players represented the senior class. New head coach Gary Hershman commented that this year was a rebuilding season and that the Cavaliers will be ready for the 1973 season.

The Cavaliers started off against an aggressive Martinsville team. The Bulldogs downed the Cavs 28-0. The Cavalier defense looked good. but the offense failed to put any points on the scoreboard. The offense remained a problem in the first district game against Carver, losing 8-3.

In the fourth game, the Cavs clashed with the Bassett Bengals, the defending 1971 Piedmont District Champions. The Bengals won 13-7 in a hard fought game.

After nine games, the Cavaliers held a record of four wins and five losses. In the last game the Cavs boosted the record to a 5-5 mark by defeating Tunstall 22-14.

The 1972 Junior Varsity football team thundered to a season marked by a record of five wins and no losses. The next most remarkable achievement was that they shut out all their opponents except Patrick County.

The J.V. squad scored big wins against F-C's traditional rivals, Bassett and Martinsville. The J.V. victory over the Bulldogs was the only victory F-C posted over Martinsville in any sport during the 1972 season.

The team worked hard under Coaches Dick Spritz and Don VanDyke. Although pleased with their team's perfect record, the coaches continued to push the players in an effort to prepare them for playing varsity football next year.

Juniors and seniors highlight the year's social activities with the prom-a glamorous production resulting from much time and creative effort. There is a theme to choose, a band to hire, decorations to make, the gym to transform, invitations to issue, and that special dress to buy or sharp tux to rent.

By working cooperatively with others in these many activities, students grow and individual ideas develop.

I felt sort of like Cinderella, a queen Friday night and college boards Saturday. Even when taking the SAT test, the excitement was still there. Being Homecoming Queen was the greatest thing that ever happened to me. The thrill of the crown being placed on my head is something I will never forget.

Clubs form a significant part of a high school student's life. Every student has the freedom to choose to join one or more clubs, provided he meets the necessary qualifications as set forth in that club's constitution. Sometimes students tend to think that joining a club means doing something tangible for the school. A club is successful if its members meet to have fellowship and discuss matters pertinent to the club. The success of a club should not be measured by the different unusual activities it can get permission to do. To be successful a club needs the active interest and participation of all members. Clubs need first to serve their members in fellowship and organization, and then render worthwhile services to others in the student body and community.

Donna Biggs goes through a dance routine with the majorettes.

The band practices diligently for the listening pleasure of others. Directed by Mr. Stuart Bullock, they present half-time entertainment by marching and playing.

Also, the band marches in several parades each year. They join the chorus groups in presenting the annual Christmas and spring concert. They participate in Band Day at V.P.I.

S.C.A. members work concessions at all home games.

Student council disappears

The Student Cooperative Association has remained an inactive club at F-C for the past four years. Apathy among students has caused this organization to die out with only the lasting function of operating concession stands.

Touche Sales drop

"Extra! Extra! Read all about it!" The newspaper staff works diligently to get each paper out on time. The four editors, Melanie Mason, Tana Warren, Teresa Napier, and Nancy Still each put out one paper. Sponsors for the 1973 editions of the Touche are Mrs. Frith and Mrs. Hundley.

Mrs. Sue Frith, Mrs. Maxine Hundley, Teresa Napier, Pam Norman, Terry Turner, and Nancy Still look

Mr. Waller and Nancy Still prepare affirmative case.

Pros debate cons

Resolved: the federal government should exclusively finance public elementary and secondary schools. This topic has been the chosen area of discussion for the 1973 debate tournaments. Much work and many index cards go into a good debate.

At a regular monthly meeting, Mrs. Bryant discusses the state convention.

President, Jeff Draper, begins the tapping ceremony by lighting candles representing qualities of a Beta member.

The major project undertaken by the Beta Club for 1973 was the tutoring of lowability students. The reward of reaching out was a new experience for many of the Beta Club members. Other projects for the year included collecting money for multiple sclerosis and distributing carnations to the patients of the Martinsville Convalesent Home at Christmas.

Dancers perform at half-time

Under the direction of Mrs. Carolyn Smith, the modern dance group provides interesting entertainment for students. The girls take turns performing dance routines during the half-time of the basketball games. In addition, the modern dancers present a skit to the faculty and student body each spring as a culminating activity of the year's work.

Dancers practice a new routine during gym class.

Girls participate in basketball and volleyball

Each year the Girls' Athletic Association chooses a group to represent them in competition for volleyball and basketball titles. The girls compete with teams from the schools in the district. Any afternoon the gym is available, one will find the girls practicing the sport they enjoy. These teams are under the direction of Mrs. Lide Sutton, who always has helpful hints and leads the girls to successful seasons.

Practice teaches

homemaking skills

Clubs such as Future Homemakers of America and Future Teachers of America prepare students for life after graduation from high school.

Students interested in the teaching profession make up the membership for F.T.A. They learn to cope with teacher problems likely to be encountered in their future jobs. They study the lives of great teachers, assist the present faculty, and learn of the future opportunities in the teaching field.

Future Homemakers learn the art of making the home a pleasant place to live. A homemaker must know how to plan her household duties before she can have a successful home life. The theme of F.H.A. during 1972-1973 is "Decisions That Count." Members participate in F.H.A. week, contribute to the Christmas cheer, and send a delegate to the convention to Roanoke. The high-light of the year is the Mother-Daughter Banquet.

Staff lays out another year of activities

Each year the students working on the annual staff plan and layout every page of the activities and the students at F-C. Work on this monumental task begins in the summer when the staff sells advertising space to area businesses and decides how many pages the book will contain, as well as planning what will be on each page.

Interested students attend the annual workshop in Charlottesville sponsored by the Virginia High School League. During the conference, the previous year's annual is judged and new trends and ideas are discussed.

Mrs. Bodkin, yearbook advisor, makes a suggestion of the position of pictures on a double-page spread.

Yearbook staff, seated: Jennifer McBride, Linda Coleman, Nancy Still, Debra Tatum. Standing. Pam Thomas, Roma Gomez, Steve Daniels, Debbie Dickerson.

Business staff: Brenda Walker, Terry Hamby, Regina Quesenberry, Rhonda Flippen, Gayle Gibson, Kathy Swain, Kathy Perkins, Mary Lou Hundley.

Lee Brammer loads camera to take pictures of happenings.

Cal Gibson, company representative, checks layouts with the editor.

On the following pages for eternity to behold, are the signatures and inscriptions of school chums. Circling, doodling, and jotting wisecracks upside down are the cunning comics who are free to murder a whole page. Romantics with hot and heavy hearts sog up the pages with tears, kisses, and "I'll always remeber . . ." And finally there are those dear friends who create passages flowing with memories while some students are stuck with "Best wishes." While the Ford company is trying to tell about its better ideas, a former flame scribbles in the little bulb about an idea he once had in a Ford<sup>1</sup>

Senior Class of 1973

The Senior Class wishes to thank all faculty members and a dminstration who have helped to guide them through their years at F-C. Jay Dund

Only he who attempts the absurd, achieves the impossible.

When asked about freedoms, most students answer with regard to freedoms they don't have. But what about freedoms we do have? We have the privilege of going to school and electing to take courses that interest us. We have the privilege and freedom to work as hard as we want to obtain grades and knowledge we seek. We have the freedom to ask questions and seek answers to problems that we face. We also have the freedom to participate in and attend athletic contests 1973 marks a change—we have such innovations as a chess club and enlarged athletic activities for girls.

Representing the Senior Class are Jeff Draper, Vice President, Ken Brammer, Treasurer, Carol France, Secretary; Joe Rains, President; and Miss Thompson, Sponsor.

With much thought, Janet Joyce prepares her day's assignments.

Now that my senior year is drawing to an end I look back at twelve years of education. I consider those years and try to decide how much I have learned. Am I prepared for what is to come next in my life?

To be honest, most of what I have learned will benefit me very little in life. The value of our education is not measured in what we have learned out of textbooks, but in our relationships with our fellow students. I have been taught many facts about English, History, Math, and other courses. But there is one thing we overlook—Facts without the wisdom to apply them are useless

I see so many students going out into life without a purpose. People caught up in things measure life by the value of material objects rather than living successfully without them

Honor graduates work studiously to maintain high averages

Seated: Debra Bryant, Vickie Joyce, Debra Thomasson, Regina Quesenberry.

Standing Ken Brammer, Debra Tatum, Robin Hodges, Diane Hardy.

Deborah Dickerson achieves honor as one of F-C's valedictorians.

Senior Steve Daniels shares the position of valedictorian.

Graduating class produces two valedictorians

Deborah Dickerson not only studies to maintain a high scholastic average, but she also finds time to participate actively in other activities, including being a varsity cheerleader and working on the yearbook staff.

Steve Daniels, also earning the average to place him as Co-valedictorian of the 1973 graduating class, devoted the majority of his time to his school work. He received the DAR good citizenship award.

Seated: Lynn Vernon, Penny Stafford, Sherry Love.

Standing: Shirley Hodges, Sandra Rorrer, Cathy Weaver, Diane Fulcher.

As Juniors we have class rings, the Junior Class play, and the Junior-Senior Prom as the high points of the year. We are also eligible for participation in the Beta Club. The college-bound have many important decisions to make, such as the selection of a college.

We have witnessed the entire space program, from Friendship 7 to Apollo 17. We have seen presidents elected and assassinated. We have seen the war in Viet Nam escalate and de-escalate. We have been crime increase at an unbelievable rate and drug addiction rise from obscurity to a matter of national importance.

We must strive to change everything, for nothing is perfect and all things must pass. So, regretfully, does the Junior year of high school.

Freshmen progress ever upward

Freshmen class sponsor, Mrs. Hunter, is flanked by the Freshmen class officers, Karen Thomason, Tammy Carrico, Chuck Wimbish and Mitzi Shelton.

This year's Freshman class is unique and distinctive. They are one of the largest freshmen classes at Fieldale-Collinsville.

The class of '76 represents the various styles present in our society.

Freshmen are quite aware of their surroundings and opportunities at F-C. They participate actively in the different sports activities. Each individual strives to do his best to make the teams #1 in the standings.

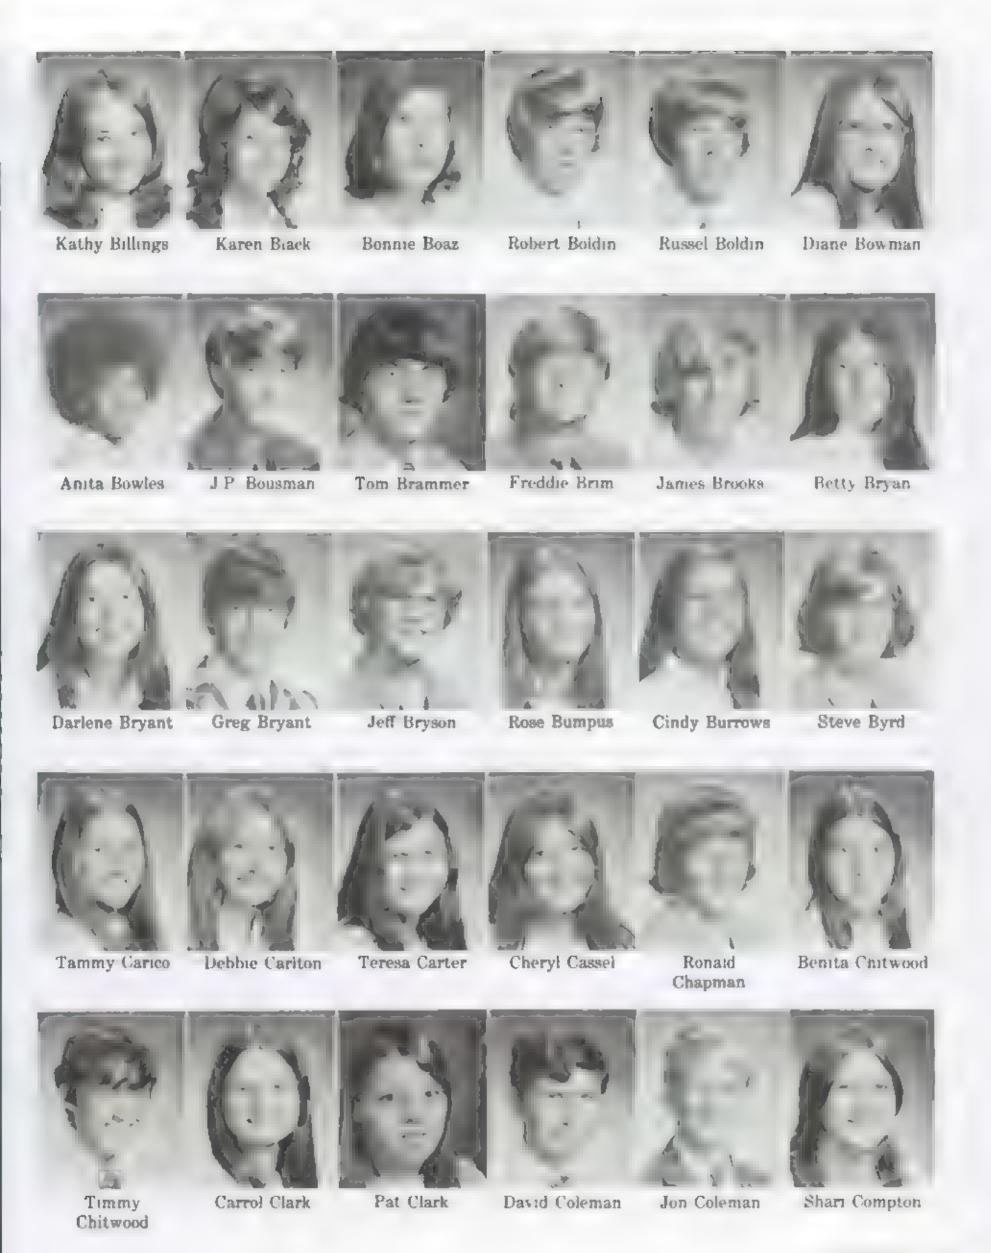

Already the Freshmen look forward to graduation, the time when they are set free to exercise their rights to function as free-spirited individuals.

Baby Cavs plunge into F-C life

In a world striving for peace and understanding, people talk about freedom: freedom from war, from poverty, from pollution, from prejudice.

As students we have freedom. We have the freedom to select any field of work as long as it is within our ability. We are free to use our leisure time as we see fit. We are free to choose our friends. Most important to us now is the freedom to elect class officers to represent us in school.

The eighth graders are represented by Linda Hagood escorted by Jeff Wickline.

Baby Cavs show upperclassmen the meaning of spirit.

Teaching requires a great deal of time and work. Unfortunately, teachers have many other "extra" tasks to do which drain them of vital energy needed to prepare lessons, grade papers, and teach students. Within the framework of each school day, teachers must take time to write corridor passes and sign absentee slips. During his planning period, a time which is supposedly free in order to allow teachers time to type tests or prepare lesson plans, a teacher must use part of this time to patrol the halls. This is an improvment over years past when a teacher had to spend the entire period at a planning station located at key points in the halls. Finally, teachers often spend several afternoons a week with club activities, a duty tying up their remaining free time.

FACULTY 186

Mr. Blessing administers school matters

One of Mr. Blessing's duties is reading the announcements.

The principal makes awards.

"Mr. Blessing, just how old is this camera?"

Throughout the year Mr. Blessing, F-C's principal, proves he is interested in the welfare of each student and in the improvement of the total school program. He stimulates in others a search for knowledge and a challenge of friendship. Even though beset with mounds of paper work and reports to fill out, he still finds time to chat with students and teachers and listen to their problems. By doing so he inspires other to be more understanding.

Mr. Gentry handles discipline

"Let's switch first period music to third period math."

Kissing homecoming queen is a pleasant job for Mr. Gentry.

Scheduling duty is a problem.

Some people underestimate the importance of an assistant principal, but students and teachers alike feel Mr. Gentry handles his duties with reliability. Scheduling teachers for bus duty and administering all disciplinary actions constitute important two. of his undertakings.

A former coach in football and track, Mr. Gentry displays school spirit. Often one can see him at sports events rooting for the Cavalier team to win another victory.

English department sponsors Barter Theater performance

"Extra! Extra! Read all about it! Julius Caesar murdered by friends!" Writing a newspaper containing news of Roman times was one of the projects of English 10 classes, in an effort to make Shakespeare's play more meaningful. The handwritten paper included ads for the latest toga fashions and reports on problems pertinent to the times.

Juniors and seniors of area county high schools viewed Barter Theater on Tour, described by teachers as a "cultural experience."

Hamlet's ghost surprises Mr. Burton.

Mrs. Leath, department head.

Mrs. Wood, Miss Sink, Mrs. Bryant, Mrs. Manns, Mrs. Travis, Mr. Burton, Mrs. Bodkin

Geography enlarges our world

"We are going to take a trip around the world!" This announcement startled many geography students on the first day of class. Even if only through books and films, this trip taught students about the people and land features of many countries located around the globe.

Government classes moaned when faced with learning the Preamble to the Constitution, but in the process discovered a wealth of knowledge relating to their guaranteed freedoms.

History teachers include Mr. VanDyke, Mr. Goodman, Mr. Barrows.

Mrs. Via, department head.

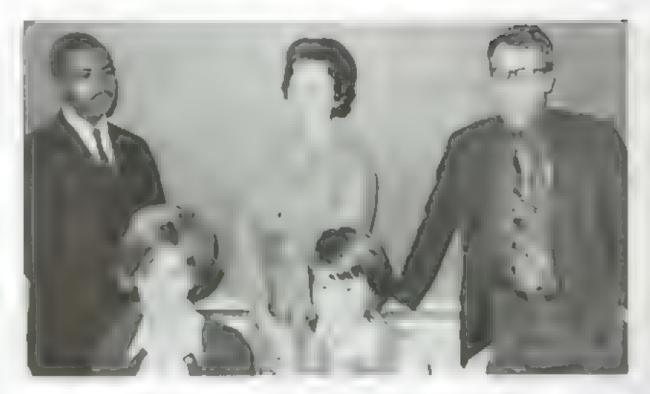

Debra Scott presents a report as Mr. Barrows listens.

ESAP program helps math students

Mr. Waller, department head.

Mrs. Wall, Mrs. Frith, Mr Reynolds, Mrs Agee, Mr Fitzner.

Mrs. Wall answers Burt Hodnett's questions during a test.

"The square root of a negative number is not a real number." Sometimes math students found this rule difficult to remember, especially at test time.

This year the mathematics department tried a new technique. Teachers introduced math games such as number puzzles to their classes in hopes of gaining students' interest in the fundamentals of the subject. Most pupils agreed it made math fun.

Biology students dissect pigs and frogs.

Mrs Cole places a blue ribbon on an "interesting" exhibit.

Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. Deel, and Mrs. Cole.

"Did anyone read experiment 19 last night?" "Every time I try to count the dots on the ticker tape, it rolls up!" And so the year goes by with science students facing many problems in the practical part of their courses.

Science students invented and put together projects for the Science Fair. If anyone was lucky enough to be taking an advanced math course in addition to physics or chemistry, he had to do one project related to both fields.

Mr Deel, department head

"You're off key!" Such minor catastrophes arise as students in music department practice new music for concerts. Mrs. Dennis directs her chorus through a Christmas concert and a spring musical festival.

Learning to march in a straight line seems to pose the most difficult movement for the band. Band members practice diligently to master the technique and formations for the annual trip to VPI for Band Day.

Mrs. Dennis, Mr Bullock

Mrs. Dennis guides the Senior Chorus through another selection.

Mr. Bullock directs band at a football game.

Miss Hairston

Drawing stresses creativity

"My paint brush dripped!"
Such a woeful cry goes up as another canvas is ruined with paint splotches.

Art students learn to recognize different techniques in drawing, painting, and constructing crafts, and demonstrate their knowledge and ability in various projects.

The Art Department frequently lends a helping hand to the school by creating designs for the yearbook or drawing eye-catching posters announcing plays.

Language teaches cultural history

"Hola, Paco. Que tal? Como estas?" Residing on the first floor of our school is a very important part of every college bound student's curriculum. Miss Francis Loftis heads the language department and teaches Spanish. Miss Robertson teaches all French classes. Adding to the culture of each student, foreign languages help everyone to realize the differences among people.

Miss Robertson and Miss Loftis

Guidance personnel counsel student body

The guidance department forms an efficient team that helps over twelve hundred students. Counselors listen to students and help them solve problems, make decisions, and plan careers. The department also keeps accurate class records on all students.

Mrs Ross checks a college catalogue for requirements

Mr. Wade records permanent grades.

Mrs. Woodruff computes grade average.

Mr. Esterly correlates day trades program

Mr. Gilbert points out a new drafting technique to Dale Chinault in mechanical drawing.

Mr. Tatum supervises Clyde Southard as he uses a signal tracer to test an amplifier.

B M Nester operates a lathe in metal trades cluster class.

The Day Trades Program poses a unique situation in the county school system. F-C is the only high school in the county area equipped to teach industrial trade skills such as auto mechanics and electronics. In each class, students from all other county high schools learn by practical experience how to repair electrical equipment, how to build simple furniture, and how to tune up a car. Since the area is noted for its furniture industry, drafting is an important part of the day trades curriculum. Students are encouraged to take a class in the metal trades cluster area, as this is also an important part of the highly industrialized community.

Mrs. Hunter and Mrs. Manns relax in the Home Ec living room.

Students learn homemaking

The funny smell in the middle hall could be the result of a first-year home ec student trying a new recipe. Or perhaps that odor is the second-year students making pickles.

The home ec students learn how to successfully manage a home, how to sew their own clothes, and how to cook family meals under the supervision of Mrs. Hunter and Mrs. Manns.

Third-year students seem anxious to enjoy the feast they prepared.

Mrs. Sutton, Mr. Krecicki, and Mrs. Copenhaver share the teaching of P.E. classes.

Heading the P.E. department are Mr. Spritz and Mrs. Smith.

Donnie Morrison practices mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

Physical fitness maintains alertness

"Duck!" Oops, too late, and the world turns black. Crab soccer is one of the most amusing and entertaining activities of the athletic department. Although the huge ball does not really hurt anyone, the excitement mounts as the ball is aimed your way.

Flying through the air in graceful leaps and delicately balancing on one foot summarize two of the many varied movements taught in modern dance. The physical education classes participate in other winter activities such as basketball, volleyball, gymnastics and wrestling. Autumn and spring events include softball and track and field, in addition to the much-dreaded standard physical fitness tests . .

ICT and D.E. conduct programs for local merchants

Classes in Distributive Education prepare high school students to take an active part in various business activities. In the classroom students study the principles of salesmanship; outside the classes, students work in area businesses to gain practical experience. Mr. Pettit, co-ordinator of the D.E. three-year program, frequently visits his students on the job to answer questions and to check on their progress.

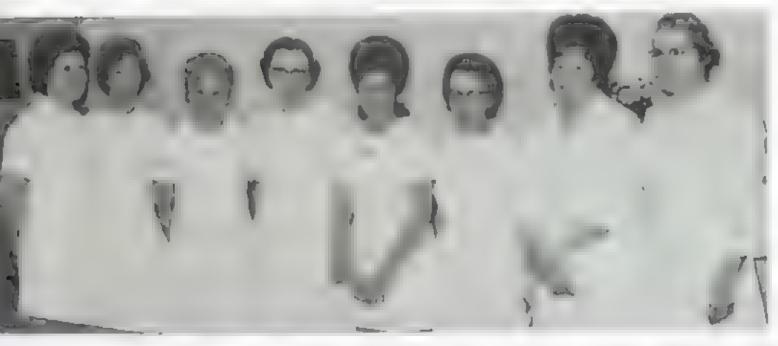

The Industrial Co-Operative Training program also provides an opportunity to gain experience in on-the-job-training in local industries. Again, a certain amount of time must be spent in the classroom learning the basic principles involved in operation as well as management. ICT students also spend part of the day working, and Mr. Pake, the program's co-ordinator, makes afternoon visits to his students on the job to supervise their work.

Sanitary conditions enforced

F-C's cafeteria staff works very diligently each school day preparing meals for the student body. As they must operate on a limited budget, they cannot hope to create the meals the students expect, especially since much of the food is government surplus. These hard-working ladies deserve more credit and recognition from both the faculty and students.

Mrs. Hancock, Mrs. Triggs, Mrs. Adkins, Mrs. Behelor, Mrs. Law, Mrs. Hall, Mrs. Chitwood, Mrs. Willis work in the cafeteria, preparing nutritional lunches for hungry F-C students.

Mr. Rakes, Mr. Hopkins, and Mrs. Holland perform housekeeping duties.

The various business establishments that engulf our community symbolize our free enterprise system

The church serves as the basis for our community's growth both spirit ally and socially

Patriotism and spiritual involvement are two of the binding elements which unite our community. Our community is full of contrasts. The awesome beauty of snow-laden trees and the scattered trash along some of our streets certainly present a contrast. Set me free . . from the unnecessary contrasts created between man and nature.

Local home displays partriotism and belief in a free country.

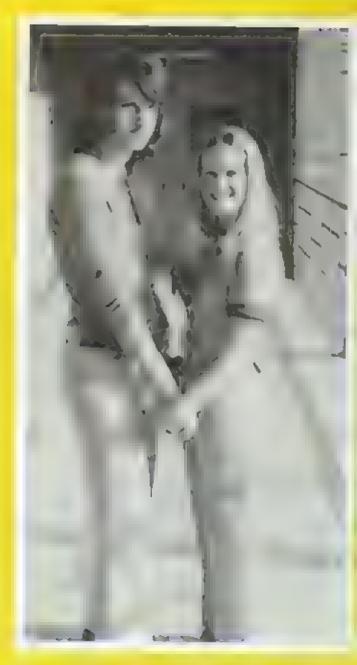

Scattered debris distracts from the natural beauty of our community.

The Coffee House offers youth an escape from daily tensions in a spiritual atmosphere

Snow means "no Easter vacation"

Kathy Swain and Anthony Byrd express the freedom of touch.

Linda Sethff enjoys cycling.

Yvonne Gillespie, Diane Fulcher, and Denise Pratt believe students can eat lunch anywhere they please.

George Moore enjoys a refreshing ice-cream sandwich.

Love, rebellion, exercise, and even ice cream provide routes of escape from daily pressures and activities. Set me free . . . to try to change things I believe are wrong, to stimulate my body through exercise, to simply enjoy an ice cream sandwich.

The plea, "Set Me Free," is heard throughout our lives, but never so loudly and with such great doubt as when seniors graduate.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The editors of the 1973 Cavalier would like to express their appreciation to the following:

Mr. Blessing-for his understanding in our time of need. Phillip's Studios, Carlton Ramsey, Abe Wood, Lee Brammer, and the Martinsville Bulletin-for all photography.

Mrs. Cassell—for keeping a record of our financial situation. Mr. Gilbert, Donnie Robertson, and all the students in vocational drafting-for lettering and art work provided.

Faculty and Administration-for letting us out of class to make pictures.

Cal Gibson and Paragon Press-for advice in and printing of the Cavalier.

Advertisers for buying ads in our yearbook to help us raise needed funds.

Especially we would like to thank the students, our staff, and Mrs. Bodkin, our sponsor, for the support and work rendered to make the 1973 Cavalier possible.

In Memoriam

Mrs. Sue Agee 1927-1973

People ure born to live, and the manner in which they live is how they are judged by their peers. The teaching profession enables an individual to give of himself to help others learn. As in any job, we have those who excel in their field. They seem to be able to handle any situation with case and to make others feel they can de the impossible. Some educators strive to attain this simple:goal-for Suc Ages it came naturally. She had the talent to take a student who disliked math and saw no use in studying it and prove to his satisfaction the purpose of math and the pleasures that could be enjoyed through learning. She always had time to help one more student. She is gone from us now, but the mark she has left on the lives of the people here will never be forgotten.
